

In the beginning, I found it was not easy to find the 'interesting' sound, but I think that was because I was too used of the sound surround me, and I forgot to jump out of pattern to listen to them.

The most amazing part is mix the sound that I recorded, a 10 sec project will include multiple sound, and that makes me have another viewpoint to feel this world.

The whole process was full of fun, it was my first time to do remix thing, and I learned how to combine lots of sound without annoy. But still need to take care when I recorded my roommate fried her chicken wings, the oil was really hot.

Two of these project I add ducks voice into it, it was about wild life and I want to build up an atmosphere that makes people feel they are in the forest.
